

BPL operation will interfere with mobile operation of amateur radio units, especially in emergency situations using mobile equipment. Ham operators must have protection under law that BPL interference from above ground power lines will be kept to a minimum and if it occurs will carry stiff monetary penalties against the provider